

Blue natural herbs added into Japanese Ginjo Sake, "SEILAN", a sake with a beautiful deep blue color

A blue natural herb called “Butterfly pea” is added to Ginjo sake to create a bright indigo color. No artificial coloring agents are used, the blue sake is made from 100% natural ingredients.

The herb itself is tasteless and odorless, so the aroma and taste are genuine Ginjo sake itself. It is a high-quality sake with a mellow taste that is carefully brewed at the sake brewery using the great material such as Yamadanishiki rice and clear water.

In addition, this mysterious blue sake “SEILAN” turns to purple when lemon or lime is added. It is also ideal for making sake cocktails such as Samurai Rock.

Currently, SEILAN has been a hot topic on SNS and online media in Japan.
